

Brussels, 09/05 2018 - By 2050, Europe's energy sector should have made the switch from fossil fuel-based energy to renewables to be carbon neutral. This transition to clean energy is now moving at a significant speed, but still more needs to be done at EU and national level but also by all citizens. Find out how we can all 'Lead the Clean Energy Transition' at the 13th Edition of the EU Sustainable Energy Week (EUSEW), - Europe's largest event promoting sustainable energy.

Organised every year by the European Commission (Directorate-General for Energy and EASME), EUSEW 2018 takes place 4-8 June.

Over 50 sessions at the Policy Conference

With over 50 sessions hosted by representatives from the European institutions, as well a range of different stakeholders from throughout the EU, the Policy Conference promises to feed a lively debate around energy islands, consumers, smart cities and regional development, digitalisation, renewables, transformation of the energy system, energy storage, finance and efficiency.

The Policy Conference takes place between 5 and 7 June in the Charlemagne building and the Residence Palace in Brussels.

The prestigious EU Sustainable Energy Awards

On Tuesday, 5 June, winners of the EU Sustainable Energy Awards will be unveiled.

12 finalists from 10 different EU countries across 4 categories (Consumers, Public Sector, Businesses, and the newly added Young Energy Leaders) are on the shortlist of the year's most successful projects. As in previous years, the Citizens' Award will be chosen through a public vote, which opens on 9 May. Last year more than 22 000 European citizens cast their vote and awarded Tilos Island.

The full range of activities

A Networking Village provides one-to-one networking sessions, project pitches, interactive presentations and exhibitions. And, of course, all this is complemented with a two-month series of Energy Days events held throughout Europe. Check out the interactive Energy Days map to find an event near you.

More than just an event...

About EUSEW

Every year the European Commission (Directorate-General for Energy and EASME) organises the EU Sustainable Energy Week (EUSEW) - the biggest event dedicated to renewables and efficient energy use in Europe. This year's tagline is 'lead the clean energy transition', and it will cover a series of activities with an EU-wide scope.
